MATSON WINS FIRST HONORS

In "Western Vanderbilt" He Wins Over Fifteen Rivals.

ANOTHER THRILLER TODAY

Scheduled Event Said to Be the Most Severe Test of Machines and Drivers in American Stock Car Racing.

CROWN POINT, Ind., June 18.—First honors in the opening western Vanderbilt season, the race today went to Joseph Matson, who piloted a Chalmers-Detroit "Blue Bird" to a brilliant victory over fifteen rivals. The race was for light cars only, and while of great importance in itself, was generally considered as preliminary to the race of the big cars for the Cobb cap over the same course tomorrow.

The absence of any save the most trivial injuries to the drivers were fortunate circumstances attending the winner of the Indian trophy by Matson. The field numbered sixteen cars at the start, the Ford and Renault having withdrawn.

The leading trio finished as follows: Chalmers-Detroit, Matson, 4:43.21; Locomobile, Robertson, 4:43.33; Marion, Mosen, 4:43.03.

Record of Matson.
The time of the other cars was not taken, as they were flagged off the course after the first three had finished. Following is the record of the Matson car:

Lap	Time	Pos.	Time	Pos.
1	25:00	10	51:00	10
2	25:43	9	51:43	9
3	26:06	7	52:06	7
4	25:50	11	52:50	11
Total time: 4:43.21

One lap, 23.17 miles. Total distance, 232.74 miles. Burman in a Buick led at the end of the first lap, covering the distance in 23:41, the fastest lap of the race. Burman also led at the end of the second lap in 49:46.

Knipper in a Chalmers-Detroit led at the end of the fourth lap in 1:46:27—two seconds faster than Matson's time.

The race, which was an hour late in starting owing to the belated arrival of the automobile trucks for the transportation of the militiamen to their stations, got finally under way when the starter, Frank Wagner, slapped Matsonville, the Corbin driver, on the back, and the machine shot across the line. The remaining cars were dispatched at minute intervals.

Burman, driving a Buick, was the only hero. He covered the first lap in 23:41, the fastest time for one circuit registered during the entire race. His excellent work continued on the second round, as he led the field past the grandstand in 49:46. His triumph was short-lived, however, as he met with difficulties on the third lap, but completed in good time.

He was put out of the running on the fourth lap by the loss of a valve. After making futile efforts to repair the damaged part he finally voluntarily disqualified himself by borrowing a valve and coming in to the grandstand, where he led the course.

In the meantime, Matson, who finished the first lap in an apparently hopeless position, was steadily forging to the front. At the end of the second round he had advanced to fifth place in point of elapsed time. He registered his best time on the third lap, covering the distance in 25:43, and this time the spur led him in first position. He was closely pressed by his Chalmers-Detroit teammate, Knipper and Poole, hardly a minute separated by the cars.

At the time of the start, Matson was forced to relinquish his lead for a brief period at the end of the fourth lap, when Knipper forged ahead by the scant margin of two seconds with Poole a close third. From this time on Matson was never in danger, as he steadily increased his lead until at one time he was eight minutes ahead of the field. His car ran with precision and he was able to continue on the track without stopping.

At the end of the eighth lap, when he halted at the repair pit to replenish his supply of water, oil and gasoline, the excellent work of Frank Vaughan, his mechanic at this stage, reduced the loss of time to a trifle more than half a minute.

Matson's teammates were unable to maintain the terrific pace. Knipper dropped out of the race at the end of the fifth lap and Poole encountered many difficulties in his sixth round, which occupied fifty minutes.

At the end of the race, he was hopelessly in the ruck after the fifth lap. The half-way mark of the race saw the Stoddard-Dayton driven by Wright and Corbin, guided by Matsonville, far in the rear. The two cars continued until the finish, but they were at all times two or three laps behind the leaders. Stutz, in a Marion, made a desperate race and was well up when he blew out a cylinder, just north of the grandstand during the eighth lap. His car ran into the shallow ditch on the side of the track, but he and his mechanic escaped with a few bruises. He had little chance to win even had there been no accident, as he was about half an hour behind the leader.

Wells in a Moon and Wiseman at the steering post of a Stoddard-Dayton struggled earnestly along, but were not able to secure a commanding position, although they lingered on the course to the finish.

Last Lap of Race.
The interest in the last lap centered in the race for second place between Robertson in his Locomobile and Mosen at the wheel of a Marion. Interest was augmented by the danger, never absent in an automobile contest, of the breaking of the machinery, which would have put Matson out of his well-earned place and have given first honors to either Robertson or Mosen. Robertson drove with experienced coolness, and was never better than fifth, but after the half-way mark was reached he moved up to third position and he snatched second place from Mosen in a terrific battle on the last lap. Robertson stopped only once at the repair pit, and his lightning work and that of his mechanic in refilling his tanks brought a round of applause.

The men in the various pits worked swiftly and, as a rule, with the briefest possible delay, although in one or two instances ill-advised haste led to the promiscuous spilling of oil or the dropping of a can from a racer and a stoppage until it could be recaptured. These incidents served to amuse the crowd and compensate it in a measure for the long delay at the start.

Today's Race Event.
Tomorrow's race will, it is said, be the most severe test of machines and drivers in the history of stock-car racing in America. Twelve cars—two Locomobiles, two Apperons, three Buicks, two Stoddard-Daytons, two Knox and a Fiat are entered. Cars are of 40 or 45 horsepower. The race is at seventeen laps—26.35 miles—or nearly 100 miles longer than the Vanderbilt cup course on Long Island.

pleased with the people to commit no breach of the peace and to acquit themselves as law-abiding citizens. He asked the people to protect from any violence the bishop and the priests. Father O'Brien arranged for a rig to take them out of the village.

Start Made for Country.
Almost before the crowd knew what was being done, the bishop and the two priests were loaded into the livery rig and a start was made for the country, on the road to David City. The livery rig started away at a lively pace, and it was some time before the automobile, carrying representatives of Father Murphy's flock, was made ready to start. The personnel of the automobile party had been kept a secret.

The story told by the liveryman who returned soon after without his passengers was that he was overtaken on the road by the people who were ordered to get out and walk. This they did and then the liveryman was ordered to turn about and drive to Ulysses without loss of time.

It was late tonight that Bishop Bonacum and the priests went to a farm house for protection and engaged a farmer to take them to David City. They had not arrived at the latter place at a late hour.

from her since. He gave her age as 20 years.

The locket was sent to the mother of the missing girl for examination. The father left the scene of the murder soon after making his statement to the police. A number of letters which the police expect will throw light on the case were found in the room where the body was discovered. One written in English, addressed to the missing Chinaman who occupied the room, but unopened, warned him that if he did not stop paying attention to "Miss Sigel" he would meet a terrible fate. The other letters found were written by a girl who signed herself "Elsie."

According to the police the missives were written in terms of endearment. A silver spangled bracelet, upon which were the initials "F. C. S.," was found in a dresser in the room. Some text books, a spell book and a geography owned by the missing Chinaman, contained rude scrawls of the name "Elsie," such as a person learning to write might make.

Miss Sigel's Envelope.
A plain envelop addressed to Miss Elizabeth Sigel, No. 306 Wadsworth avenue, New York City, but empty, was also found in the room.

A man who called himself Joseph K. Lang, but who is a Chinaman, called at the Eighth avenue house quite unexpectedly during the night. He said he called to see his cousin, who proved to be the missing Chinaman, who occupied the room in which the trunk was found.

Lang said his cousin came from Philadelphia about five months ago.

Lang said he saw his cousin, Elsie Sigel and her father and mother at a performance at the Chinese theater three weeks ago.

Two senators appeared to reinstate them in mutual good will. Mr. Bailey said he had no purpose to reflect upon his colleague.

Mr. Hughes, referring to the remarks of Mr. Bailey said he would never train his gun against those of his own party and concluded by remarking that he had probably been given the usual hazing that comes to new senators.

During the course of his remarks, Senator Hughes took occasion to impose the policy of attempting to impose an income tax by the roundabout way of a constitutional amendment. He declared his conviction that it was now competent for congress to impose an income tax under its present authority, and he pointed out that the former income tax law was not still on the statute books, as had been stated by the president, but that it had expired by its own limitation nine years ago.

Brown's Amendment Beaten.
Previous to this discussion a vote had been taken on Senator Brown's amendment approving for free importation of print paper and it was defeated by a vote of 28 to 23, only four republicans, Messrs. Beveridge, Bristow, Brown and Burket, voting for it.

Senator Gallinger occupied the earlier hours with a speech in support of the finance committee's rates on paper and wood pulp, declaring that Canada had a vast advantage in the cost of labor over the United States in the production of paper and urging sharp competition in this country as the reason why the price of paper had been kept down.

Mr. Lorimer, the newly-elected senator from Illinois, was sworn in and took his seat. The ceremony was witnessed by the senator's wife and five children, all of them grown, who occupied the front row in the senatorial private gallery. Mr. Lorimer cast his first vote against free paper.
